

GLOBAL HEALTH 2035

A World Converging within a Generation

San Francisco launch of Global Health 2035 with Lawrence H. Summers

Join global health leaders from UCSF and The Lancet Commission on Investing in Health to learn about a major new report: Global Health 2035: A World Converging within a Generation. The report proposes a bold new strategy to achieve dramatic health gains by 2035.

Special guest: Lawrence H. Summers, President Emeritus of Harvard University and Chair of the Commission

Tuesday, December 17, 2013, 5:00 PM–7:00 PM (reception to follow)
UCSF, 513 Parnassus Avenue, Cole Hall (note new location)

DISCUSSANTS

Ken Arrow, Commissioner; Nobel Laureate; Professor of Economics, Stanford University

Colin Boyle, Deputy Director, Global Health Sciences, UCSF

Richard Feachem, Commissioner; Professor of Global Health and Director of the Global Health Group, UCSF

Dean Jamison, Commission Co-Chair; Professor of Global Health, University of Washington

Suellen Miller, Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Sciences and Director, Safe Motherhood Program at the Bixby Center for Global Reproductive Health, UCSF

Laura Schmidt, Professor of Health Policy and Co-Director of the Community Engagement and Health Policy Program at the Clinical and Translational Sciences Institute, UCSF

Gavin Yamey, Commissioner; Lead, Evidence to Policy Initiative, Global Health Group, UCSF

Free online registration required at globalhealth2035.eventbrite.com

The Global Health 2035 report was launched on December 3 in London. Please visit globalhealth2035.org to download the report and watch a video of the launch.

UCSF GLOBAL HEALTH SCIENCES
Improving health and reducing inequities worldwide

10 years
of impact